- Decadas da Asia escritas por Diogo do Couto nesta ultima impressao accrescentadas com Indices muy copiosos por Jayme Domingos de Late e Sagau, 3 vol. Lisboa Occidental, 1736, (depois 1571, ate o do 1575,) These three volumes include the fourth Decade of Diogo do Couto, a distinct publication from that of Barroso and Decades, 5, 6, 7, 8, and the 9th, now first published. A portion of the 10th was also published in this year, and the whole was printed in 1788, in 2 volumes, 8vo.
- DECADA DOZE. Cinco Livros da Decada Doze da Historia da India (depois do anno 1596 ate o do 1600) por Diogo do Couto. Tirados a luz pello Capitano Mel Frz de Villa Real Cavalleiro fidalgo da casa do sereniss. Dom Joao IV. Rey de Portugal nosso senhor, Residente na Corte de Pariz e Consul da Nação Portugueza nos Reynos de França. Excessively rare. This is the only portion of the twelfth ever published, - Em Pariz, 1645
- The eleventh, and remaining portion of the twelfth, exist only in MS.

. This very fine series of BARROS Y COUTO "AUTORES DIGNOS DE ETERNA FAMA," consists of 12 volumes, and it is believed that no copy so fine and so complete as the present of this valuable work is to be found in any library in this country; and in France, Brunet says, that the original editions are presque introuvables. See also Meuselius vol. 2, part 2, page 28, who remarks, that "Priores (Decades) quoque maximam partem tam raræ sunt ut codicibus manuscriptis similes censeantur. Decas sexta insigniter rara, quia maxima exemplarium pars, incendio in bibliopolæ ædibus exorto, flammis absumta fuit." The present set is in very fine condition, and has been chosen from the different copies collected by Mr. Heber, at an expense which no other collector ever had, or probably ever will have the courage to encounter.

 * * * "Gabriel Tellez, better known by his pseudonym of Tirso de Molina, was one of the most festive Dramatic writers Spain has ever produced. Little can be said in favour of the morality of his works, which is similar to that of the English dramatists of the time of Charles II., and which no doubt is the reason why this reverend friar made use of an assumed name. A complete collection of his works, like this, is of the greatest rarity. Antonio and other Spanish writers only mention three volumes of plays; Blakenburg doubts of there being any collection of them; Bouterwek had only seen the fifth volume. The modern editions of some of the single plays have been most unsparingly pruned by the Spanish censors."—Bibl. Mayansiana, Part I. N. 688.

It only wants Vols. 4, 13, and 47, and Vol. 10 is imperfect. An additional volume is

La Vega del Parnasso por el Fenix de Espana Frey Lope Felix de Vega Carpio, - Madrid, 1637

. A reference to Lord Holland's Life of Lope de Vega will show the extraordinary rarity of the Original Editions of his Comedies, which have never been collectively republished since their first appearance. N. Antonio, who wrote in 1684, gives the contents of twenty-five volumes, but seems to acknowledge he had never seen the genuine Madrid Edition complete. Mr. Heber also, in a MS. note, says, "I know of no complete set of the twenty-five volumes of the Dramatic Works of Lope de Vega in England, except that in the British Museum, which is far from being in satisfactory condition, several of the volumes being rotten, and nearly all the title-pages fictitious. In fact, I never saw a perfect set, though I was told of one at Paris in the hands of a private individual, who values it at an enormous sum, and has refused immense offers for it, made him by Rodriguez the Spanish bookseller. See Baret's Travels, for his testimony of its extreme rarity in Spain, where only one complete set was then known of, in the Library of the Duke del Infantado."

The present extraordinary, and perhaps in extent and beauty of condition unrivalled series of the Comedies of of the "FENIX DE ESPAÑA," consists of 43 volumes, and has been selected from the following collections purchased by Mr. Heber; the two sets from the Bibliotheca Mayansiana bought for 128*l.* and 60*l.* 18*s.*; series of plays purchased in 1824, with the name of Molart inscribed on each; Kemble's collection, formerly Baret's, and the collections purchased of Messrs. Payne and Foss and of Mr. Rodd.

— CARTA TERCERA DE RELACION : embiada por Fernando Cortes capitan y justicia mayor del yucatan llamado la nueva espana del mar oceano, al muy alto Señor Don Carlos emperador, &c. de las cosas sucedidas y muy dignas de admiracion en la conquista y recuperacion de la muy grande y maravillosa ciudad de Temixtitan : y delas otras provincias a ella sujetas que se rebelaron, &c. FIRST EDITION.

SEVILLA, POR JACOBO CROMBERGER ALEMAN ACABOSE a XXX. dias de março anno, 1523

— LA QUARTA RELACION que Fernando Cortes governador y capitan general por su majestad en la nueva Espana del mar oceano embio al muy alto y muy potentissimo invictissimo señor Don Carlos emperador senper augusto y rey de Espana nuestro señor : en la qual estan otras cartas y relaciones que los capitanes Pedro de Alvarado y Diego Godoy embiaron al dicho capitan Fernando (sic) Cortes. The text commences on the reverse of the title, and concludes, on the reverse of c. 7, with the following colophon. (Signature A contains 6 leaves, B and C 8, the last is blank.)

Fue impressa la presente carta de relacion en la ymperial ciudad de Toledo, por Gaspar de Avila. Acabose a veynte dias del mes de Octubre. Anno del nascimiento de nuestro salvador Jesu Christo de mil y quinientos y veynte y cinco annos (1525)

..* " Our knowledge of the events which happened in the conquest of New Spain is derived from sources of information more original and authentic than that of any transaction in the history of America. The letters of Cortes to the Emperor Charles V. are an historical monument, not only first in order of time, but of the greatest authenticity and value. As Cortes early assumed a command independent of Velasquez, it became necessary to convey such an account of his operations to Madrid as might procure him the approbation of his sovereign. They contain a regular and minute history of the expedition, with many curious particulars concerning the policy and manners of the Mexicans. The work does honour to Cortes; the style is simple and perspicuous."—Robertson.

Not more than three or four copies of the second and third letter of Cortes are known to exist, but THE FOURTH IS OF SUCH EXCESSIVE RARITY AS NEVER TO HAVE BEEN HITHERTO DESCRIBED IN ANY BIBLIOGRAPHICAL WORK. "Quartæ Epistolæ editionis primæ descriptionem nullibi invenimus," says Meuselius, Vol. III. p. 268, and Panzer, Vol. X, p. 28, only gives the date from the Bibl. Joschiana. It is believed that the first letter was never printed. 2 vol. very fine copies.

 by me at the D. of Grafton's Sale in 1815, is (to the best of my recollection and belief) the finest and purest I ever saw. For 20 or 30 years I have omitted no opportunity of looking at nearly all the copies which have been brought to sale in London; and I can safely assert the superiority of the present to all that have fallen in my way. Nothing is more difficult than to meet with a sound clean Grafton, having the title page in perfect state. It should be remembered there is only one antient ed. This belonged formerly to Narcissus Luttrell." Note by Mr. Heber.

1. 17. — 4187 MORE (SIR THOMAS). Germani Brixii, Antissiodorensis
Antimorus, venetian morocco, — Lutet. 1519
* * This is the answer of Germain de Brie, or Germanus Brixius, to the ridicule bestowed upon him by Sir T. More in some of his Epigrams. The origin of the quarrel was the account published by Germanus Brixius of an engagement between an English and French vessel, both of which were destroyed. See MS. note.
- s. 2. 6 4188 Mori (Thomæ) Epistola ad Germanum Brixium: qui quum Morus in libellum ejus quo contumeliosis mendaciis inceserat Angliam: lusisset aliquot epigrammata annis ab hinc plus septem jam intra sesquimensem in summa Anglorum Gallorumque concordia, sub ipsum Conventum principum, ædedit adversus Morum libellum qui et ineptiis et virulentis jurgiis suum infamat Authorem, EXCESSIVELY RARE, Londini in Ædibus Pynsonis, 1520
* * This was intended by Sir Thomas More as a reply to the above tract of Germanus Brixius, but at the request of Erasmus all the copies, with the exception of seven, were called in, as appears by the following extract of More's letter to Erasmus.

"And yet that thou mayst see, my Erasmus, how much readier I obey thee than Brixius, know that though at the receipt of thy letter my book was not only in the press, but already printed, I have yet bought in all the copies thereof and keep them with me, with the exception only of the two copies sent to thee and Ægidius, and five others which the printer had sold already." See Dibdin's Ames, vol. ii. p. 483.

4774 PAULOVICH (GIOVANNI) OR JUNNAN PAULAVICH. Libero del Rado Stizuxo Stampata in Venetia per Maestro Bernardino de Vitali Venetian. 1533. Libero de le Vendette che fese I Fioli de Rado Stizoxo, s. a. 2 vol. in 1, fine copies, EXTREMELY RARE. 4. 2.—

. The author of this poem is Juan Paulavich (Giovanni Paulovich) of Ragusi, but there is no mention of him in any literary or political history. He says he was the son of Zuani (John) Idrovich, Doge of Ragusi. The name of Idrovich is unknown. The Paulovich was a powerful family known also by the name of Critich, Sovereigns of Bosnia, and admitted to the patriciate of Ragusi, where they found a refuge, after being driven from their country. Radostao Paulovich was one of the most distinguished individuals of the family, and if the name be Italian Rado Slavo (Rado the Slavonian) the poet may have possibly meant to celebrate the deeds of one of his ancestors. The names of Radislao, and Radiooi, as well as others ending in Slao, Sleo, or Slau, are common in all the Slavonian Dialects (Weruslao, Stanislao, &c.).

It is impossible to state what is the precise subject of the poem. It consists of a narrative of unconnected actions of RADO STIZUTO (Rado Stizzoso Rado the Angry), who is related to Orlando and forms one of the cycle of the Carolian heroes, all introduced in the poem. There are some humorous passages in it, for instance the wood-cut at the top of Aii, represents Rado, who was going to dash out the brains of a wolf which he had noosed, when the animal spoke to him and begged his life. He told him that he was his uncle Michio Tragurin (Michel of Traguri) an innkeeper at Modrusa, who was so transformed for having mixed water with wine (Sig. F ii. retro. vol. i. 174).

The language in which the poem is written is unique. It is not Tuscan, although the author professes to have written in Florentine, nor Paduan, but a mixture of these two dialects with Italianized Slavonian, and French, without order, grammar, construction, or rules of any kind, so that to understand it one must guess as well as he can. The Author says, that he had lived at Ragusi till he was thirty-four years of age, that he had studied at Padua, that he had been at Paris, and that this poem was translated from the French. No wonder therefore at this strange mixture. It is moreover to be observed that he is not even constant in his jargon. The fifth Canto of the poem, for instance, is mostly written in a dialect wholly distinct from the others, resembling that spoken in the mountains of Brescia, and Bergamo.

 1. 1. - 4821 PETRUS VON SUCHEN. Von dem gelobten land und weg gegen Jerusalem, von irem wesen un wundern die in dem grossen mor gesehen werdent. s. a.
 These travels in the Holy Land were written by Petrus, curate or rector of Suchen, who dedicates them to his patron, Bishop Baldwin von Steinfurt, of the church of Padeborn, between the years 1336 and 1350, and this excessively rare edition of them is accurately described by Panzer in his Annal. Deutsch. Litt. V. I. p. 447. It is without date, title, signatures, numerals, or catchwords. A Latin edition appeared apparently at the same time with the German one, in which the author is styled Ludolphum parochialis ecclesiæ in Suchen rectorem, but for what reason is unknown. Panzer is uncertain to what printer he must ascribe the present edition, but conjectures that it appeared soon after 1470. The type has some resemblance to Bäumler's or Gunt. Zainer's, who published an edition in German of these travels with the date of 1477, but differs from both. It contains 116 leaves, with 24 lines on a full page, and on the verso of the last is the following colophon :
 Hie endet sich das büch von dem gelobten land und heiligen stetten.
 von den vil in der Bibel und ewan

 6719 TYTURELL. EIN RITTER-GEDICHT AUS DEM 13^{ten} JAHRHUNDERT, VON WOLFRAM VON ESCHILBACH, 10.-.- M.CCCC.LXXVII. 7.-.-

* * This curious volume, which is of excessive rarity even in Germany, is part of a series of legendary poems on the Saint-Greéal and the heroes of the Round-Table, written by Wolfram von Eschilbach, a German poet of the thirteenth century, and was first printed in 1477 from a manuscript once preserved at Heidelberg, but now in the library of the Vatican. This legend was divided by Wolfram into three parts, entitled Parcifal, Tyturell and Lohengrin, all closely connected with each other, to celebrate the prowess of Tyturell, surnamed "The protector of the Saint-Greéal," who is the hero of the whole series. It was originally, however, of Provençale origin—perhaps even of a more remote or oriental one—as Wolfram himself acknowledges in the 86th stanza of this poem, where he says that he was indebted for his subject to the minstrelsy of Kyot the troubadour:

Der von Proventzale.

Flagetanis perlure.

Heidensch vō dē grale.

Und Fantzoys tūt euch kunt vil aventure.

Dasz will ich tutschē wil es mir Got nun kindē.

Was Parzifal da birget.

Das wirt zu liecht bracht on vakel zinden.

Though Wolfram wrote the whole of the portion called Parcifal, and the greater part of Tyturrell, it appears in the concluding stanzas of the present volume, that it was left to be terminated by Albrecht von Halberstadt. Both these appeared in print for the first time in the year 1477, though they have only once been seen bound up together; but the Lohengrin remained in ms. until it was lately given to the public by M. Goerres.

The poem is printed in two columns, and though it appears at first sight to be in prose, is really in seven line stanzas of alternate rhyme. In this peculiarity it differs widely from the other portions of this metrical romance, for the Parcifal is in regularly successive rhymes, and the Lohengrin in irregular metre with ten-line stanzas. Though this edition has no colophon or printer's name, it was executed, as well as the Parcifal of the same date, by Mentelin of Strasburg, with the same type as the Specula Vinc. Bellovacensis, which he published in the year 1473. It contains 307 leaves, and is divided into 41 parts or chapters, and the last leaf is filled with a table or register of the contents. It is without title, signatures, numerals or catchwords. At the foot of the page preceding the table, is the date, in roman numerals, immediately under the concluding stanzas above alluded to.

* * This is perhaps the rarest of all the Works executed in the infancy of Printing. No copy has occurred for sale for very many years. The present is in very fine condition, and the cuts are neither pasted down or coloured. See the Bibl. Spencer. vol. I. p. XXXVI. Dr. Dibdin says, "After the most careful examination of this very early and curious specimen of the graphic art, I incline strongly to the opinion that it is the production of some metallic substance, and not struck off from wooden blocks."
